MEMORIAL TABLET PRESBYTERY HAS TO WIFE OF DAVIS OPENING SESSION

erate Woman Soon to Be Placed in Church.

Within the next few months the long-talked-of memorial tablet to Mrs. Jef-ferson Davis, wife of the President of the Confederate States, will be placed in a niche in the west wall of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, adjoining the Jefferson Davis memorial windows and the Winnie Davis tablet. At its last meeting, the vestry of St. Paul's ap-pointed the following committee to complete the details pertaining to the erection of the memorial: Dr. George Ross, chairman; B. Rand Wellford and changed between New York artists and Mrs. George Ross, the custodian of the tablet fund, in regard to the design and cost of the proposed memorial. Nothing elaborate will be attempted, it being the wish of those concerned in the movement to make the sim-plicity and dignity of the memorial an appropriate commentary on the character of Mrs. Davis. While Mrs. Ross has not determined what inscription is to adorn the piece of bronze, expects to have only something she expects to have only something like the arms of the Davis and Howell families, the full mame of the Confederate President's wife, the dates of her birth and death and a short quotation. It is a rather remarkable fact that although the vestry of St. Paul's years ago granted permission for the erection of a tablet within the church to the memory of Mrs. Davis, the memorial has never been set in place. This has been due principally to a lack of funds on the part of those behind the movement and partly to the intervening hand of death. First, Mrs. Margaret Jefferson Davis Hayes, the married daughter of President Davis to whom the vestry had granted leave to erect the tablet, died; then came the sudden death of Mrs. Joseph Rryan, upon whose shoulders the burden had fallen; after her, other women interested in the movement succumbed to the last summons, until finally only Mrs. George Ross remains of the original band.

Now, Becide to Act.

Left over from the Davis memorial window fund was the sum of $200, which Mrs. Ross placed in bank to the credit of the committee which had determined to set up the memorial to Mrs. Davis. This fund has slowly grown, until now the committee has at its disposal about $100. It is expected that the entire cost of erecting the memorial will be about $500. This discrepancy, it is hoped, will be made in out of the public generosity.

The committee hashed, will be made in out of the public generosity.

discrepancy, it is hoped, will be made up out of the public generosity.

The committee has been spurred to action because of the fact that the interior of St. Paul's is to be redectorated during the summer, and the vestry wishes to have the memorial tablet set up before this work is done. It is the intention of Mrs. Ross to proceed with the work and to trust to the with the work and to trust to the triends of Mrs. Davis for financial re-

Intends of Mrs. Davis for finencial reimbursement.

Mrs. Varina Howell Davis, wife of Jefferson Davis, is buried by the side of her distinguished husband in Hollywood Cemetery. She worshiped in the Davis pew in St. Paul's Church during her residence in Richmond. In the west wall of this old church are the beautiful stained glass memorial windows commemorative of Jefferson Davis; to the south of the windows is the bronze tablet in memory of Miss Winnie Davis, "The Daughter of the Confederacy," and to the north will be placed the tablet to Mrs. Davis.

VERDICT MUST STAND

Receiver of Stolen Goods to Serve Six Vears in Penitentiary.

After hearing argument, Judge Richardson, in the Hustings Court vesterday, overruled the motion to set aside the jury verdict of six years in the penitentiary in the case of W. R. Lenzo, convicted of receiving stolen goods.

For some time the police watched a gang of boys believed to be implicated in certain sneak thievery. Two of the boys were located and arrested in Ashland by Detectives Wiltshird and Gentry, and their confession implicated three other boys, all five now being in the Reformatory. Their confessions implicated Lenzo as the "Fagin" who had instructed them and disposed of the stolen goods. In the specific case tried, the boys testified that Lenzo paid them $5.50 for jewelry they had stolen. The jewelry was recovered at Lenzo's room, and was found to be worth $160.

Lenzo operated here as a palmist and clairvoyant.

The conviction is said to be the second of its kind in ten years, the police having had much difficulty in proving intent in cases of persons receiving stolen goods.

The Paragraph Pulpit THE TRUE MINISTER.

Whoever serves or seeks to serve his fellowmen is a true minister of God. He may or may not believe in or attend any church; he may never have formulated his faith in words; he may never have taken sacred vow or sacrament; but if he loves and serves, the loving and the serving are his certificates of good standing. He may be clad in overalls, and work in a ditch, and talk broken English, but if he loves and serves, no archbishop takes precedence over him in the wider ministry whose spirit is love and whose ritual is service.—Unitarian Publicity Committee.

facts for Farmers

Comparisons which have been brought out very recently between the prosperity of certain up-to-date rural districts in Virginia and other manufacturing sections show that in the counties where agriculture has been properly developed THERE IS ACTUALLY MORE MONEY IN BANK ON DEPOSIT than in the respective manufacturing counties.

These are plain facts as shown from banking figures, and argue much for better farm methods. The American National Bank is advocating better farming in Virgniia for many broad reasons, but we quote these facts to show that simply from a business standpoint the movement means prosperity for our farmers.

We are endeavoring to work with him on his own ground in the same way that we serve his interests in our own business. We have prepared a booklet for the farmer's use in long distance banking. Write for "How to Bank."
